The Harder you burn, the brighter you shine

by Alex Montaldo

Synopsis

Some live. Some die. Some kill. For fame.

It's 1994 and in the wake of a high school shooting attributed to his music, Lynx, a Rock Star with a mysterious past, is being interviewed on TV.

With Satanic Panic on the rise, Rock 'n Roll has become the natural enemy and Seth Wolf, owner of the biggest independent label in Los Angeles, claims Lynx is the Alien Messiah come to Earth to save Rock 'n Roll.

Over the course of the interview an Evangelical Pastor is brought on to give his take, then things get completely out of hand when Lynx's mother is brought out. Lynx flees the set and every member of Seth's entourage is called to duty so the Savior's destiny can be fulfilled.

As Lynx performs his final number, he is shot in the back.

Is this a terrible accident or the fulfillment of a perfect plan to create the ultimate rock 'n Roll Martyr? Will Seth and his cronies get more than they bargained for? And was it worth it?
